ABSTRACT

The guide contains over 250 source materials about Canada in the reference department of McLennan Library at McGill University. Many of the sources mentioned are basic to all Canadian studies; therefore, the guide replaces an earlier one (ED 130 965) on "Canadiana" published by McLennan Library in 1974. The first six sections list encyclopedias, handbooks, chronologies, almanacs, annual reviews, and statistical sources about Canada. Section seven, which comprises the main body of the guide, presents bibliographies. These are grouped into six categories: general and historical bibliographies about Canada; regional bibliographies about specific provinces; topical bibliographies including foreign affairs, industry, and ethnic groups; theses and research; newspaper bibliographies; and bibliographies of periodicals. Section eight briefly lists periodical titles on Canadian history, regional history, and related subjects. Each entry gives information on title, publisher and date, McLennan Library catalog and shelf numbers, and a short description of each book's content. An index of main entries and distinctive titles concludes the guide. (Author/AV)

CANADIAN HISTORY: A STUDENT'S GUIDE TO REFERENCE SOURCES

This guide is intended for students of Canadian history and is designed to complement the other student's guides on Canadian topics. Many of the sources mentioned in this guide are basic to all Canadian studies and for this reason it will replace Canadiana: A Student's Guide to Bibliographic Resources (1974 ed. corr. 1977). The other student's guides which Canadian history students will find most useful include Canadian Biography, Canadian Manuscripts and Archives, Canadian Politics and Government, Le Québec, Indians and Eskimos of Canada, Atlases in the Reference Department and A Guide to Theses Location and Verification .... These are available at the McLennan Reference desk. Also recommended are the guides available in the McLennan Government Documents Department including Guide to Canadian Government Publications and Sources of Information, Guide to Canadian Parliamentary Publications, Guide to Quebec Government Publications and Sources of Information and Guide to Parliamentary Publications of the Province of Quebec.

This guide is divided into sections according to type of reference work. Within each section and sub-section items are arranged according to use. The most all-encompassing sources are listed first, followed by the less comprehensive or regional ones. On occasion an historical sequence appeared desirable so some titles are assembled in a chronological order.

Other collections

The student of Canadian history will find most of the material necessary for research in the collections of the McLennan and Undergraduate Libraries. All of the material in these collections, including that in the UL's Audio/Visual Room, is listed in the McGill Union Catalogue in the McLennan Reference Department. In addition, the Government Documents Department in the McLennan Library is a depository collection for Canadian federal and Quebec provincial governments. This means that they receive all the publications issued by these governments. They also maintain a representative collection of publications from the other Canadian provinces. In this guide reference works, particularly bibliographies, of Canadian and Quebec government publications have been omitted. Such works are adequately covered by the student's guides produced by the Government Documents Department (mentioned above). Bibliographies of government publications covering other regions or provinces of Canada have, however, been included. Students are reminded that the majority of government publications are not found in the McGill Union Catalogue. The Government Documents Department has a separate catalogue of its holdings.

There are also a number of specialized collections which a student, after exhausting the above collections, may use. These include the Department of Rare Books and Special Collections, the Lande Collection of Canadiana, and the University Archives.

All locations for items cited in this guide have not been indicated. If you wish to obtain additional locations, consult the McGill Union Catalogue of authors and titles by the entry used in this guide.

If you have any difficulty using this guide or the reference sources listed in it, please do not hesitate to ask for assistance from a reference librarian.

This guide was compiled by Lillian Rider, Reference Department, McLennan Library.

UL
Educ.

Encyclopedia Canadiana. Toronto, Grolier of Canada, 1972. 10v.

A comprehensive encyclopedia on all aspects of Canadian life, historical and contemporary. Based on the Encyclopedia of Canada and duplicates it in part, but does not supercede it. Arranged alphabetically by topic with bibliographies following some articles. There are some long articles on topics such as church history, constitutional history, economic history and military history. An atlas with its own index appears in volume 10. No general index.

Shortt, Adam and Arthur G. Doughty, eds. Canada and Its Provinces; a History of the Canadian People and Their Institutions. Archives ed. Toronto, Glasgow, Brook, 1914-17. 23v.

A cooperative comprehensive history of Canada by topic. It discusses general or national issues as well as local or provincial. Volume 23, a thorough general index to the set, is arranged alphabetically. It includes also very fine chapter by chapter bibliographies, a chronological outline of Canadian history with important events in Europe and the USA in parallel columns, historical tables and manuscript sources.

_____. Index, Topical and Personal. Toronto, Linscott, 1900.

The first of many cooperative encyclopedic works on Canada. Its use is limited, or on occasion enhanced, by its date of publication. Fairly lengthy signed articles by a variety of contributors are arranged by topic and are often followed by editorial notes correcting, amplifying and presenting differing views. Includes some biographical information and numerous portraits. Each volume has its own index. Difficult and frustrating to use for quick reference. The Index, Topical and Personal is arranged in the following sections: Broad Subjects, List of Contributors, List of Protraits. Scenes, Plans and Maps, Buildings, Topical Index (most useful section) and Index to Leading Men.

Story, Norah. The Oxford Companion to Canadian History and Literature. Toronto, Oxford University Press, 1967.

_____. _____. Supplement 1972. Toronto, Oxford University Press, 1973.

A handbook of short articles arranged alphabetically. Those of an historical nature include: biographies, places, events, topics in Canadian history and bibliographies. The many cross references are indicated by words printed in capital letters. The Supplement updates, elaborates and corrects the original volume including the bibliographies. Added are survey articles on History Studies and Political Writing. There is also more emphasis in the Supplement on French Canada.

Thibault, Claude. Bibliographia Canadiana. Don Mills, Longman, 1973.

A comprehensive work which includes books published prior to 1970 and periodical articles prior to 1969. It has been found wanting in coverage and accuracy but is a good starting point none-the-less. Arranged by subject. Historiography is included in Part 1, "Tools of Research." There is a detailed table of contents, a valuable aid for using the work, but the contents of the Addenda (pp. 635-706) are not listed. The index, by subject only, must therefore be consulted. The index is awkward to use as it refers only to item numbers. A list of periodicals with their abbreviations is included.

VII.C. Topics

Note: The listing of topical bibliographies which follows is very selective. The decision for inclusion was somewhat arbitrary, based partly on the currency of the works cited and partly on the seeming popularity of the topics covered. For example, the type of material covered by Section 5 "Social and Economic Affairs" is often sought after with difficulty by history students. This list should serve as an indication of the type of bibliographies which exist, albeit not in great numbers, for Canadian topics.

It should be noted that all these works and other similar works are accessible through the subject catalogues. Specific subject headings such as EDUCATION, HIGHER - BIBLIOGRAPHY will reveal Harris' Bibliography of Higher Education in Canada (Z5185 .C3H3 Ref); MINES AND MINERAL RESOURCES - CANADA - HISTORY - BIBLIOGRAPHY will reveal Richardson's Survey of Canadian Mining History (Z6034 .C19R5x Ref); and CITIES AND TOWNS - CANADA will reveal Stelter's Canadian Urban History; A Selected Bibliography (Z7164 .U7S74 Ref). Bibliographies of works by and about individuals can be found under the person's name with the subdivision- BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Guides to reference sources on other Canadian topics available at the McLennan Reference Desk will also prove useful. As well, the guides on Jewish studies, the mass media, urban affairs, sociology, geography, etc. will include Canadian material.

An annual index of Canadian, English language anthologies as well as periodicals not indexed elsewhere. Includes material published in Canada regardless of topic and nationality of the author. The "Essays" and "Book Review" sections are its chief value for historical research but it also includes poems, plays and short stories. In the "Essays" section full bibliographic information is given by both author and subject with no title entries. In the "Book Reviews" section there is only one listing by author, subarranged by title. Each volume includes a list of books and periodicals indexed.

R.A.D.A.R.; Répertoire analytique d'articles de revues de Québec. v.1, 1972- Montreal.

Ref. has: v.1, 1972-
UL has: v.3, 1974-

An index to approximately 100 Quebec periodicals. Published six times a year with annual cumulations. The "Section analytique", by author, subject and title of films and books reviewed, gives complete bibliographic information - author, title of article and periodical, date and pagination - plus a code number. The "Section Méthodique" classifies the entries, which appear in code number order, under broad subject headings. It also gives full bibliographic information and provides a resumé of the article as well. Effective use of this section alone requires familiarity with the list of subject headings and their subdivisions in each issue. Entries appear a number of times in both sections. Includes a list of periodical issues indexed.

Index analytique. v.1,1966 - v.6,1972. Sainte Foy.

Lib. has: v.1,1966 - v.6,1972.

Index to French language periodicals approximately 20% of which are Canadian. 10 issues per year with annual cumulations. Format has varied over the years. Presently the "Index analytique", a key word index, provides a short resumé of the article (but no title), periodical title, date and pagination. The "Index méthodique" provides the same information by broad subject categories. Each article is indexed a number of times. Unfortunately there is no link between the two sections and there is no author access. A list of periodical issues indexed in each issue appears in the front.

VIII. PERIODICAL TITLES

Note: The following are selected alphabetical lists useful for research in Canadian history. Periodicals in the McLennan Library are kept according to call number in the stacks. Unbound issues, usually the current year, are kept in the Current Periodicals Reading Room. (In the Undergraduate Library, however, all the periodicals, current and retrospective, are kept together in the Periodicals Room alphabetically by title.) An index to an individual periodical title is kept with the title in the stacks. Indexes which cover a number of titles are kept in the Reference Department. It should be noted that monographic series such as the Champlain Society Publications, or the Canadian Centenary Series, also very valuable for historical research, have not been included in these lists. Such series are accessible in the McGill Union Catalogue by checking author or title of the individual volume or the series title.
